FRENCH PRESIDENTAmbassador Among Those Present at Reception in London to Poincare.

LONDON, June 25.—President Poincare, of France, began his second day as the state guest of Great Britain by receiving United States Ambassador W. H. Page, as well as other members of the diplomatic corps, at York house, the royal residence set apart for his use.

Ambassador Page took occasion to express to the President the felicitations of America, for which the French executive thanked him profusely.

With the consent of the President, Ambassador Cambon's dinner at the French embassy, scheduled for tomorrow night, was substituted tonight for the foreign office banquet by Sir Edward Grey and the state ball at Buckingham palace, which will be given tomorrow night instead.

At noon President Poincare, after his busy morning with diplomats and French residents, was the guest of the lord mayor and the corporation. He was driven from York house to Guild Hall in a state carriage, while troops lined the entire route and life guards escorted the carriage conveying the visitor and Ambassador Cambon.

The streets were thronged, and President Poincare received a tumultuous ovation. Thousands everywhere sang the "Marseillaise" and French flags fluttered from every house.

In accordance with custom, the king did not accompany his guest, so that the vociferous welcome accorded the French executive was entirely personal.

Welcomed by Lord Mayor, Lord Mayor, Sir David Burnett, with the aldermen and sheriff, were waiting at Holborn to welcome the President and escorted him to Guild Hall, where more than 1,000 guests were assembled, including the Prince of Wales, attending his first official banquet; the Duke of Connaught, Prince Arthur, the Duke and Princess Alexander of Teck, and all of the cabinet ministers.

In the spacious library of Guild Hall, the recorder, Sir F. Pulton, read the address of welcome, which after-ward was placed in a gold casket and presented to the President. The address referred to the cordial relations between France and England and expressed the gratification of the people of England in general, and the people of London in particular, to entertain the French President.

The toast to the King and the lord mayor was proposed by President Poincare and the Prince of Wales responded. Premier Asquith, Sir Edward Grey, and M. Cambon also made speeches.

Tomorrow, in addition to the foreign office banquet and the state ball at Buckingham Palace the President will be the guest of King George and Queen Mary at a gala performance at the International Horse Show.

Criticism Queen Mary. Today is also "Alexandra day" in London, and when the Queen Mother drove through the West End it was seen that Queen Mary was with her, and many in the crowd openly criticized the younger woman. They said that it was Queen Mother Alexandra's day, and that her daughter-in-law forced herself into the spotlight to share the applause.

Twenty thousand women, charmingly attired in white and wearing hats encircled with flowers, waylaid all Londoners on the streets during the day and compelled them to buy artificial roses in honor of "Alexandra day," named to celebrate the jubilee of the Queen Mother's arrival in England.

It was fifty years ago on March 3 that Tennyson's "Sea King's Daughter, From Over the Sea" landed in England, but a British March is no time for a flower fete, so the celebration was postponed.

President Poincare bought an Alexandra rose, and wore it to the luncheon. Twenty millions of the roses were made by the crippled children of Cripple Lane, and they were sold for 2 cents each. The proceeds will go to charitable institutions in which the Queen Mother is interested.

An automobile procession had been planned, but it was abandoned because of the congestion of traffic due to the presence of the French President.

BEAR NOTE TO WHITE
HOUSE FROM WESTTwo Publicists for Panama-
Pacific Exposition Make Trip in Motor Car.

Bearing a letter from President Charles C. Moore, of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, to President Wilson, Edward B. Hanson and J. A. Clairmonte arrived at the White House at 11 o'clock this morning in an automobile in which they had crossed the continent. The two men have been making lectures en route on the wonders of the exposition, which is to be held in San Francisco from February to October, 1915, in commemoration of the opening of the Panama canal.

Last week the two motorists attended the Ad Men's convention in Baltimore, but they were kept out of the parade, which they had expected to lead, by a road accident at Sloyestown, Pa., when a woman driver lost control of a big touring car and crashed into the light case exposition car in which they were making the trip.

The best time made on the trip across the country was between Omaha and Baltimore, a distance of 1,400 miles, which was made in seventy-one hours actual running time. The trip from San Francisco to Baltimore was made in eighteen days.

The car, which is decorated with the golden poppy, California's State flower, attracted attention all along the route. The route followed was from San Francisco through the Grand Canyon to Salt Lake, and then to Denver, Omaha, St. Louis, Davenport, Chicago, Fort Wayne, Lima, Dayton, Pittsburgh, Bedford Springs, Hagerstown, Baltimore, and Washington.

Returning stops will be made at points along the Great Lakes, and the Northern route will be taken to Seattle, returning down the Pacific coast to San Francisco.

On the trip the exposition representatives will vary their talks on the Pacific fair with arguments for good roads, as they have found much material in the middle West for road improvement lectures. The roads through Maryland and Pennsylvania they pronounced as ideal.

Near-Victim of Gas
Saved by Pulmotor

The pulmotor saved another life last night when Miss Lillian R. Mattingly, nineteen years old, was found unconscious from the effects of inhaling illuminating gas in her bedroom, in her mother's apartment at the Dakota, 1610 Girard street northwest.

Guy Saunders, who occupies an apartment in the building, smelled gas which he traced to Miss Mattingly's room. An entrance was forced and the gas turned off. A hurry call was sent to the hospital and Dr. Carr responded in the ambulance.

Miss Mattingly was soon revived with the pulmotor and in a short time was pronounced out of danger. The young woman said she was unable to account for the manner in which the gas had been let turned on.

WIFE HALTS SUICIDE;
DEATH HER REWARDHusband, Angry When Hanging
Is Prevented, Also Kills
Four Children.

BUDAPEST, June 25.—When his wife cut him down after he had vainly attempted to hang himself, John Salfek became so angry that he killed her and his four children with a hatchet, to-day.

Salfek, who is a provincial tax collector, had been despondent for several weeks. His wife was uncertain whether he was in bad health or financial difficulties, but she watched him constantly. Today she missed him for a few moments and when she made a search, found him hanging, but still alive.

She severed the rope and Salfek became so infuriated that as soon as he could get his breath, he picked up a hatchet and killed the woman, after which he sought out their children and slaughtered them. He was arrested and the officers had difficulty saving him from mob violence.

"Thermatic" Cookers
Have No Equal

Their superior cooking qualities are due to distinctive points of construction not to be found on any other fireless cookers. Each compartment is absolutely steamtight. The removable, automatic steam valve conducts the surplus steam from the cooker and provides a dry temperature for baking.

Lined With Seamless Aluminum
or Nicked Copper

Both of these linings are rustproof, both steam tight, and easily cleaned. Both are the same in price. The nicked copper lining is the heavier, is more durable, does not easily discolor through usage, and will give lifelong satisfactory service.
